WHEAT ENVOYS DETERMINED TO REACH ACCORD

Secretary C. Hull Thinks Meeting Productive of Good Results

By CLAUDE A. JACOB
Associated Press Staff Writer
LONDON, July 18.—In an effort to insure that the world economic conference may survive in some form after the scheduled adjournment July 27, a number of experts are meeting today to consider continuing some of the work in special committees after the delegates have departed.

OFFICIAL WITHHELD

Secretary Hull declined to express his opinion as to how the deliberations might be kept going, saying that this problem was still under consideration.

In important sessions of both the wheat and the cotton committees there is much about the general conference will be viewed at any time in the future.

Negotiations for wheat and cotton have been continuing since the adjournment in a last effort to secure some compromise between the two countries.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said it was reported that he had been asked to permit him to announce a success in the final plenary session.

Frederick E. Murphy of Minneapolis, wheat expert, was optimistic when asked last night whether he expected conclusion of an agreement for wheat exchange.

"Yes sir," Mr. Murphy replied. "We are going to stay here until we get one."

YOUTH SWIMS DREAD NIAGARA WHIRL RAPIDS

Current Catches Nator But He Escapes by Great Effort

NIAGARA FALLS, July 18.—Without clothing, William Kondrak, 16, of Chatham, N.J., last night swam through the whirlpools and rapids of the Niagara River, emerging on the Canadian side.

He was seen in the middle of the whirlpool by Harold Brooks, manager of the area on which operates over the whirlpool. Brooks called E. McFarlane, Toronto, who watched the progress of the boy through the pool and emerged with a suit of overalls as he was clambered up the bank.

According to Kondrak's story, he and a chum entered the river just above the lower falls and swam two-thirds of the way to when he was turned around and started back. He was then caught in the whirlpool and his head above water as he plunged through the rapids and the great waves of the whirlpool.

After going twice around the whirlpool, he made a desperate effort and was able to swim toward shore and into calmer water.

Negotiations for an agreement reducing production of wheat, wheat acreage and exports have been in progress during the World Economic Conference in London.

The "big four" representatives, who directly from a meeting this morning with delegates from four other countries—Belgium, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria—went to a session with Russian experts.

In the second conference they said they would try to bring down to a definite export quota for wheat next year.

Boy Killed As He Tries To Save His Dog

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 18.—As he pulled his dog from the path of an oncoming train, 13-year-old James Walton was struck and killed by the train here. After crossing the track, the boy saw his dog standing between the rails. The dog jumped to safety as the boy was struck. James was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Walton. Mr. Walton had been seen at a holiday here.

Nudists Exercise Behind Locked Doors in Tiny Gotham Gymnasium

Time Between Open-Air Assemblages Is Bridged by Secret Meetings Indoors

GYMNASTOPHIST CULT CLOTHED IN NIL AT ALL

Activities of Indoor Group Are Bared by Special Writer

The activities of an indoor American nudist group are described below in the second of three parts of a series of articles. First-hand survey of nudism as it is practiced in this country, here, away from the open, separated questions regarding this highly controversial movement are answered by one of its leading exponents.

Special to EDMONTON BULLETIN

NEW YORK, July 18.—It was a basement gymnasium in New York City, and more than faintly redolent of perspiration and disinfectant. In the outer office a group of people stood about, dilly dallying, some looking at a collection of snapshots. The picture showed unclothed men and women, doing exercises on a lawn, running a race, trundling a wheelbarrow, loling in the sun.

One of the women asked, "How awful is it?"

"Come now, all of you," called an officious little man. "Get your towels and get out of here. We'll be taking off 25 pounds within the next 10 minutes."

In 10 minutes later, members of the American Gymnastophist Association began straggling from the locker rooms to the gymnasium floor. The women were clad in swim caps, and some wore small, dark, one-piece swimsuits. The men were mostly in underwear shorts. Circles were formed and everybody sat cross-legged at the business of tossing heavy medicine balls.

Was this, then, a sample of indoor nudism, after all the preachments about the healthful aspects of exercising the completely unclothed body? No, it turned out. It was not. The women were not nudists. They were dressed in the regular mid-week meeting of the Gymnastophist Association. As they left, chattering conventional pleasantries and expressions of love and affection, each reported to the secretary, Miss Ruth Winkler.

the improvement in the physique of nudists. In a few more months I don't believe the culture will be offended."

Remembering the day broke the nudist world of "just a little something," the reporter asked about that idea.

"Don't you," suggested Dr. Parolete. "Where it's been tried abroad it has led to the same sort of bad manner that you see on our public beaches. It may be as healthy from the standpoint of sunlight, but not from the standpoint of unrestricted 'sunbathing'."

"Morality," exploded Dr. Parolete, "has nothing to do with it. Then he muffled his starting bluster with an explanation. "In the public mind," he said, "nudism has gotten all mixed up with sex, and sex is mixed with morality. As a result, people don't want to do with each other. Being good or being honest are not ends in themselves. People don't adopt morality for the sheer sake of being moral, they do it to avoid unpleasant or embarrassing consequences."

"Then how about the ugliness of the average human body? Doesn't that make nudism unattractive to the average person?"

"I'm inclined to think," he said, "ethetically sensitive people."

"Well, maybe. But I've been to many camps here and abroad, and I'm inclined to think I've seen more beauty than ugliness. I believe most of the ugliness is largely due to the wearing of clothes, and it's pleasant to notice the local airport, saved him for the fog was pretty bad, said Miss Gills.

ALBERTA GRAIN CARGOES ISSUE BEFORE BOARD

Victoria and Prince Rupert Ports Are Defined For Railways

OTTAWA, July 18.—In a judgment handed down today, the Board of Railway Commissioners refused to accept the contention of the Canadian Pacific Railway that Victoria and Prince Rupert, served by the Canadian National, are competitive points with Vancouver for export wheat originating on the Northern Alberta lines.

The effect of the judgment is to leave the export traffic to those C.N.R. ports from the operation of the agreement whereby the two railways share on a 50-50 basis in competition on the Northern Alberta lines which are competitive points with Vancouver for export wheat originating on the Northern Alberta lines.

Reviewing the case, Chief Commissioner C. P. Fullerton recalled in terms what the two railways, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National, are competitive points with Vancouver for export wheat originating on the Northern Alberta lines.

WHAT ABOUT THE JASPER HIGHWAY?

Announcement is made that work is to start at once on the construction of the highway from Edmonton to Jasper, to the Bend of the Columbia river.

It is four years since the Dominion and the British Columbia governments made an agreement for the building of that highway. The work has not been pushed, and when it will be finished nobody seems to know or guess. However, it is possible, hundreds of idle men could have been given employment there during one or two of the depression summers, and the road would now be open for traffic.

Incidentally, that is one of the missing links in the Trans-Canada highway—if the reader has not forgotten that there once was a Trans-Canada highway project. It is good news that construction is to be continued this summer, even though at the minimum. It would be still better news that construction was to be undertaken in a business-like way, and an end made of the job this year or next.

Meantime, what about a little Dominion assistance toward completing the highway from Edmonton to Jasper, and from Jasper on to Blue River? The Dominion has given nothing toward the cost of building the road from Edmonton to Jasper. The federal authorities did make a deal with the British Columbia Government two years ago to bridge the gap between Jasper and Blue River, and cancelled the arrangement a few weeks later. Since then nothing has been done. In this season also to pass through the winter being done to open up the through route from Edmonton to Vancouver?

DOLLAR WHEAT

For three years "dollar wheat" has been the hope—and the despair—of the western farmer, therefore of western people generally, and of people in all parts of Canada who depend on wheat for their livelihood. The conditions are upon the income from this basic Canadian industry.

The event so long looked for and so long deferred happened on Saturday. Wheat is to deliver next year at a minimum more than a dollar a bushel in Winnipeg. Wheat for immediate delivery was worth 92 cents, or 72 cents, in Edmonton. Last December it was worth as little as 20 cents in Edmonton.

That difference of fifty odd cents a bushel means the difference between growing wheat at a loss and growing it at some margin of profit. The wheat grower's margin of profit is the money he makes after he has paid for seed, fertilizer, and the cost of harvesting, and that affects the "times" in all parts of Canada more than any other factor.

It is what the farmer has to spend, after paying taxes and loans and operating expenses, that determines the volume of buying and manufacturing stores, the amount of employment available in town and country, the general welfare of the western people, and the wages payable in factories from one end of the Dominion to the other. If he gets back for the crop nothing more than it costs to produce it, his business is a loss, a minimum. A few added cents per bushel under conditions prosperous where they would otherwise be lost or positively bad.

However much the farmer may be cheered at the better price for the wheat he has on hand and the prospect for a profit-giving price for the crop that is growing—wheat—warmer weather, businessmen and investors all over Canada have reason to share his gratification at the upturn and the prospect.

Dollar wheat means better times for every man and every family in Canada.

NORWAY DOES IT BETTER

Mr. S. G. MacDonald, Canada's trade commissioner at Oslo, writes in a recent issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal regarding transportation matters in Norway. One statement will interest Canadian readers:

"Private organizations took early advantage of road transport in Norway, and bus lines on practically all of the important roads where competition is not offered to the railways, which are state-owned." Elsewhere he indicates that similar restrictions are imposed as to the operation of commercial truck lines.

That is to say, Norway has adopted the policy of using the motor bus and truck as supplementary transport means, service in territory where railways have not been built.

In Canada we have done exactly the opposite. Having spent several billions of public and private money in constructing two transcontinental railways with vast branch line systems, we have paralleled the lines of these railways with highways and licensed buses and trucks to compete for business which the railways formerly handled. The loss of this business to the buses and trucks has been a major factor in curtailing railway revenue, causing the cancellation of trains, the dismissal of employees, and in cases, the virtual abandonment of branch lines.

The difficulty arose from the fact that while the Dominion builds railways, or causes them to be built, the provinces build highways and license buses and trucks, and have been doing that without any particular regard to the effect upon the railways. In fact if the provinces had wanted to land the railways in difficulties, from which the taxpayers of the Dominion will have to extricate them in one way or another, they could have pursued policy that would have been materially more effective.

Three years of depression would seem to have supplied all the necessary pressure to bring the Dominion and the provinces together to hammer out some sort of working agreement that would stop the absurdity and relieve the taxpayers of the double burden of building and maintaining railways and allowing highway rivals to destroy them.

So far as the public are aware, little if any progress has been made toward an arrangement of that kind, for whatever reason it is that that matter should be taken up seriously by both federal and provincial authorities and an effort made to reach some sort of solution.

The trouble is that the Dominion is one of the most widely-extended and menacing of the domestic questions that confront this country. The taxpayers of Canada simply cannot go on providing money for the Dominion and the provinces to spend fighting each other in the transportation field.

Since then nothing has been done. In this season also to pass through the winter being done to open up the through route from Edmonton to Vancouver?

For three years "dollar wheat" has been the hope—and the despair—of the western farmer, therefore of western people generally, and of people in all parts of Canada who depend on wheat for their livelihood. The conditions are upon the income from this basic Canadian industry.

The event so long looked for and so long deferred happened on Saturday. Wheat is to deliver next year at a minimum more than a dollar a bushel in Winnipeg. Wheat for immediate delivery was worth 92 cents, or 72 cents, in Edmonton. Last December it was worth as little as 20 cents in Edmonton.

That difference of fifty odd cents a bushel means the difference between growing wheat at a loss and growing it at some margin of profit. The wheat grower's margin of profit is the money he makes after he has paid for seed, fertilizer, and the cost of harvesting, and that affects the "times" in all parts of Canada more than any other factor.

It is what the farmer has to spend, after paying taxes and loans and operating expenses, that determines the volume of buying and manufacturing stores, the amount of employment available in town and country, the general welfare of the western people, and the wages payable in factories from one end of the Dominion to the other. If he gets back for the crop nothing more than it costs to produce it, his business is a loss, a minimum. A few added cents per bushel under conditions prosperous where they would otherwise be lost or positively bad.

However much the farmer may be cheered at the better price for the wheat he has on hand and the prospect for a profit-giving price for the crop that is growing—wheat—warmer weather, businessmen and investors all over Canada have reason to share his gratification at the upturn and the prospect.

Dollar wheat means better times for every man and every family in Canada.

Poems That Live

A sweet disorder in the heart

Kindles in delight a wantonness;

A leaven on the shoulders thrown

Into a careless merriment.

An erring leech, which here and there

Entails a crimson memento;

A cuff, a redoubt, and thereby

Blends the new scene with the old.

A winning wave, deserving note

In the tempestuous petticoat;

A careless slouching in whose life

I see a wild civility.

Do more bewitch me, than when art

Is too precise in every part.

—Robert Herrick.

SIDE GLANCES - By George Clark

Wherever the scientist, whether real or self-classified, goes from actual technical explanation, into generalities, he winds up in ballyhoo about some theory which is never based on or demonstrated by any science.

Early in 1833, Mr. Bertrand Russell is credited with having written:

"The tendency of modern culture is to lean upon science rather than upon art or literature."

"This is due to the immense practical utility of science."

It is hard to see how the institution of "marriage and family can survive except among a small privileged minority."

"Science has progressed so steadily that we have become accustomed to consider it as something stable and absolute. Parallel, however, Christianity has been losing many of its positions."

Based on these learned writers considered he had made a new utterance of scientific value, but each was some two centuries late.

Nearly two hundred years ago, one Archbishop Secker, wrote:

"An open and professed disregard of religion is becoming, through a variety of unhappy causes, the distinctive character of the age; as must, if the torrent of impiety stop, not become absolutely fatal."

Bishop Butler, in the forward to his Analogy wrote:

"It has to be taken for granted that 'Christianity is no longer a subject of inquiry, but that it is now a subject of belief.'"

And accordingly it is treated as "if, in the present age, this were an agreed point among all persons of moderate intelligence, that 'the age' was not absolutely fatal."

In the years which have intervened between the time when the Divines of old expressed their sense of religious defeat, and the present day when our modern scientific backers are shouting their alleged new discovery that Christianity is in the down-grade the Methodist denomination came into existence with a revival of religious fervor around the world, all the religious institutions of North America have been created; the Salvation Army has conquered its part of the world, and to get back to the religious institutions of the past have carried the healing art with its auxiliaries of sanitation and prevention to the utmost ends of the earth.

So far as can be judged from actual results the forces of religion are doing more for science, than all the scientists of the world are doing for themselves and the masses of mankind with the children, find and always will find, a preserving and conserving force in religious belief and that belief will be the basis of the new world.

There had been settlers at the new capital before the new capital arrived, for in the "Local Progressing Ground" there are foundations dating from before 1874.

The building in which the first legislative council met still stands on Queen street and is marked by a tablet. Twelve years later the present legislative building was erected. In early days Government House was the residence of the provincial governor, but in the early 1890s the province had a lot of money and abolished the viceregal house, as well as wiping out the legislative council.

Then the lieutenant governor has had to live at his private home, and the house of the lieutenant governor has been a hotel when he visited the capital. During the war period old Government House was used as an army hospital. I am not sure whether it has now closed or what has been its fate.

About his nature and disposition he is a bit of a puzzle and you will not appreciate its full import until you receive further word, possibly from a different source, relative to it. ## THRIFTY PEOPLE SHOW ACUMEN

DEAR DOROTHY DIX:—You write of the desirability of owning a home. Consider, however, the countless thousands who have striven and saved for years in order to make payments on a home and find they have lost it all due to unemployment. That is what the world is doing today. They experience this. This depression has curbed multitudes of thrift. Try: "Let us eat and drink and be merry, for tomorrow we suffer."

JOHN F. M.F.

Answer: One of the most disastrous and far-reaching effects of the depression has undoubtedly been to break down the money of so many money men and turn them into water and spenders. It has killed the ideal of thrift that the wise and prudent have been cultivating in for so many years. Nor can one wonder that those who have seen their homes taken from them after years of privation they have gone through in working and scrimping trying to pay for them, and that those who have seen the few thousand dollars they had scraped together, partly by no means the least, with their very life blood, swept away by falling banks and fraudulent stock companies, feel that there is no use in trying to save money and that just as well to eat and drink and be merry as to try to save money and at least had a good time.

Dorothy Dix would have been wiser to have spent it at least had a good time.

What's What

I have in mind three friends of mine who a few years ago received a nice little inheritance. Two of the sisters blew their money on a trip to Europe, a lot of good clothes and fine cars. The third prudently invested hers in what she considered gilt-edge bonds. Now all of the money is gone. The two who had the money have the wrecks of their Paris finery and battered cars, while the sister who had nothing, not even the memory of a grand holiday.

Thousands of others are like these, and it is human for them to feel that henceforth they will invest their money in whatever kind of a savings account. But it seems to me that this is poor reasoning because if they spend everything they make they are not saving anything. It is bringing upon themselves disaster, whereas if they save judiciously they would have a chance of saving anything. Of course, the latter is a possibility, but there will never be another such cyclone.

Question—I am 33 years old, a widow with an 8-year-old daughter. I am wearing my second engagement ring, and my first wedding ring. I have taken off my first engagement ring and tried to keep it for presentation to my daughter some day. Shall I also put away the wedding ring which was placed on my finger by my first husband, or may I wear it with the second wedding ring?

Answer—Lock up the first wedding ring with the first engagement ring. These lose all sentimental significance when a woman chooses to marry again and to give first place in her heart and in her mind to a second husband. The engagement ring may be given to the daughter of the first marriage as soon as she becomes old enough to appreciate the gift.

Question—Does a girl always sit to the right of a man? For example, in a picture theatre, when a man accompanies two girls, does he sit to the left of the one who is especially interested and to the right of the other girl who is the least interested? Also, how should he place her in a train seat or automobile?

Answer—The right-hand rule is subject to modification. In a picture theatre, the man takes the side seat, right or left. In a train he should give a girl choice of the window seat. Unless she is driving the car, she is seated at his right in an automobile.

Minute Make-Ups

By V. V.

In summer, when there is the temptation to use powder by day and cream by night in lavish proportions, be sure that you allow the face to rest free of cosmetics. Every other night your face after it is cleansed, should be untouched by cream in order to allow the pores to breathe.

Meals Served In the Fresh Air Are Of Great Benefit

Soothe Jaded Nerves by Eating Outdoors

By MISTY MARY

The man or woman who has spent the day in an office, the woman who has spent a good share of her life in the kitchen or anyone who has been indoors all day will find infinite pleasure in meals served in the fresh air. The only thing that is needed is a good appetite and a good reason to go out. The reason is that the fresh air will soothe the nerves and the food will give the body the energy it needs to get on with the day.

Banff-Louise Air Trail Delayed

HYDROPLANE IS USED IN NOVEL TRIP ON LAKES

Pioneer Flight Made by Capt. Bill Holland of Vancouver

CHATEAU LAKE LOUISE, July 18.—Blazing a new trail through this region of the Canadian Rockies, a hydroplane piloted by Capt. Bill Holland of Vancouver took off from Lake Minnewanka near Banff last evening and thirty minutes later skimmed the jade-green waters of Lake Louise in a perfect landing.

In plane with Capt. Holland were A. E. Robertson, manager of the Banff Springs Hotel, Jim Brewster of Banff, famous hunter, guide and head of a local motor transport service, and Col. C. C. Child, government engineer of the Banff National Park.

They were welcomed by Manager J. J. Meredith of the Chateau Lake Louise.

The plane was moored to the boathouse wharf and an hour later the plane returned to Banff with Mr. Brewster and Mr. Child. Replacing their husbands as passengers.

The forty miles between Banff and Lake Louise are familiar ground to visitors to the Canadian Rockies, and Jim Brewster in his life time has traversed every mile and learned to know intimately every remote fastness it holds.

Two Wrecks In Hoot's Career

Two wrecks, it seems, have occurred recently in the career of Hoot Gibson, cowboy film star—when he crashed his airplane during a race at Los Angeles and the other when his marriage to Sally Siler, movie actress, went on the rocks. Anyway, here is Gibson, recovering in a Los Angeles hospital from injuries received in the plane smash-up, as he shows a picture of the wreckage to his new girl friend, June Gale, 21-year-old San Francisco actress, with whom he admits he is "madly in love." Gibson announced that he and Miss Siler, recently returned from Europe, plan a divorce.

The twentieth anniversary of the organization in Alberta of the first lodge of the Order of Sons of Norway was observed Saturday and Sunday when delegates from the several lodges in the province assembled in Edmonton at the guests of the local lodge, Solgt.

No. 143. The organization in Edmonton of Solgt lodge in the year 1913 was the formal introduction into the province of the Order of the Sons of Norway, which now has a membership of approximately 25,000.

J. Bjornestad of Camrose was appointed executive secretary of the conference.

BANQUET BY LOCAL LADIES

MAY RE-ROUTE ARCTIC MAIL

For the purpose of investigating the feasibility of re-routing the mail for the Eastern Arctic, R. W. Hale, district postal superintendent, will fly to Great Bear Lake with Pilot C. H. "Punch" Dickins, of the Canadian Airway, about the middle of July.

Formerly, mail for the Arctic was forwarded to Repulse, and distributed from there. The present proposal is to extend the service to Great Bear Lake, the most northern point of the Canadian Arctic.

The postal official will also study the question of operating a post office at Camasli River.

Travelers expected to be at Camasli River on August 4 for the celebration of the Great Bear Lake picnic.

THE FREEDOM OF MOVEMENT

Canadian cattle now enjoy within their own borders a result of the agreement reached through the Imperial conference at Ottawa. It has been a very important factor in preventing congestion at ports of export.

The outlet for Canadian cattle—Dominion Live Stock Branch—will be closed.

Wallace Berr, secretary of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, is trying to convince others that the latest airplane accident was unnecessary. Mary Le Roy, public practical, with nothing here.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

CLAUDETTE COLBERT slips off to her dressing room where she can play with portable picture and forget about picture for a few moments.

Oh, yes, these hubbers are quite necessary in order that the players may be kept out of padded cells. You see, the average screen actor when working spends about two-thirds of his time just waiting.

Those waits are commonly referred to as "being between takes." And the players absolutely must have something with which to keep busy.

Bridge used to be the favorite pastime between scenes. But one sees little of that now. The silence necessitated by talkies is largely responsible for the passing of this game. The other day on the First National lot I stumbled across the first bridge game I have seen in several months.

Key Francis was in bed while the director and leading man were sitting on it discussing the next scene with her. And over in a corner two men and two girls were so wrapped up in their bridge game that they were oblivious to all else.

George Bancroft used to spend all of his time trying to remain in control of the walking back and forth around the set when not needed. Maurice Chevalier usually can be found at a piano on an adjoining lot.

Marlene Dietrich spends most of her time between scenes talking with Josef Sternberg and when he's busy, she just sits and watches.

When Shrimpy let the swordfish go, he said, "Well, after this you'll know that you should never play mean tricks on visitors down here."

"The lads I've found are 'Tinkymind' and they came here to see the sights. From now on, you let them alone. Don't even come real near."

And then the fish swam out of sight and Cappy said, "Well be all right."

AS RACES OPEN

—BILL LEWIS—

The houses are back with us again... They were given a grand greeting by the crowd of the faithful on Monday afternoon, which was the first of the seven-day meeting here. And the multi-ple they indicated that this city is year by year becoming a racing centre that will soon begin to take rank as such.

There's a better class of horse in many previous seasons and there was plenty of room for speculation in the well-matched fields that went to the barrier.

Opening day had its usual couple of surprises to reward the faithful players, though with plenty of strictly "form" running.

Training on the Edmonton track this spring apparently did a lot of good for Sonora Gold, property of the popular breeder, who has the big bay gelding came down in form to hit out a couple of much more favored horses.

Many familiar figures in town for the races, D. Adams, the quiet, genial gentleman from Southern Alberta is back in the judges' stand again. Jim Deacon, who has been in his customary position on the starter's stand.

BUSSES BEAT SAFEWAY FOR 6-5 VERDICT

Morey Rimstead Blasts Out Hit To Break Up Battle

Clouting a lone single to right field, Morey Rimstead, Arrow first sacker, broke up a hard battle that went 10 innings to give the bus men a firm hold on second place and a close 6-5 verdict over night.

Going into the first frame of overtime, Cunningham was tagged out at second after reaching first base by a safe blow. Goyan got by his fielder's choice. Winner truck came by Rimstead following him in bat and it was Morey's long drive that brought him to the fourth sack for the winning run.

Cunningham held the Safeway nine in the last of the tenth frame by striking out two batters. The third batter grounded out to first base.

PUT UP BATTLE
The Arrow went made the Safeway prospects for a berth in the playoffs much brighter, and they certainly did not take their bow to the Arrows until after the third.

Both teams went into the second inning deadlocked, after Goyan had moved for the Arrows and Lutz for the store gang. The bus boys came in for a run after the third.

When Mutho scored home on an error by Brant, Lutz once more sealed the crowd's lead in the end of the third.

Safeway went one better over the Arrows by counting one run in the fourth and fifth frames, while the Arrows went scoreless. McPeak and Brant were the scorers.

Taking a dislike to the Safeway lead, the Arrows went out and got themselves two markers in the seventh frame.

Safeway evened it up again in the seventh frame to send the teams into a 5-5 deadlock until the final frame. Fan Three favored the Safeway gang, but bringing a great victory for the Ducey crowd.

TAKES FEATURE EVENT MONDAY AS RACES OPEN

Fine Opening Day in City When Seven-Day Meet Commences Here for Thoroughbreds

By BILL LEWIS

Featured by the thrilling victory of Wey's Tim in the Edmonton Handicap, a program of seven stirring races Monday afternoon marked the opening of the Exhibition Association's seven-day meeting at the Exhibition track.

There was a good sprinkling of surprises and consequent good returns for the punters on the opening day card that brought out a comparatively large crowd of race-goers to see the meet off to a great start.

Favored by brilliant weather, the crowd soon warmed to the occasion and the multifarious turnover exceeded by nearly 10 per cent the play through the machines on the first day of the 1932 meeting.

Longest price of the day came in the second race when the Sunrider, a fine six-year-old gelding, sold for two-dollar straight tickets. There were other fine returns, too, for a place with the Flying West.

Nick Hinchey, fresh from a great victory of triumph at the Sunrider, away to a grand start when he rode three winners to lead all the jockeys riding Monday. He had a leg up on Augusta in the first, on the Gold in the third, and on the Milton Moore in the last race of the day.

Johnny Longden, always a popular rider, had two firsts on opening day, riding Miss Swarthmore home in front of the third and fourth in the Gold in the third.

The Daily Double return was unimpaired, the first being a 10-1 shot, the second a 10-1 shot.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The "mile foot" race, which has been a pipe-dream for so long, is just around the corner, in the opinion of even the most conservative of those who discussed the future of the mile race.

Lovelock's marvelous 1:07.6 record at Princeton Saturday night is the distance. The New York Times says that the mile race is just around the corner.
